1. INTRODUCTION
In Indonesia, the development of information technology through social media is both a source of pride and concern. The number of social media users in Indonesia is soaring. Internet users in Indonesia reached 63 million in 2012 (Bugiardo, 2015), an increase of 300 percent over the preceding five years. This condition is bolstered by the presence of 29 million people who access the internet via mobile device, a sign of their users' proficiency in using the language. In April 2012, the Ministry of Communication and Informatics reported that the number of social network users in Indonesia was also very large. There are at least 44.6 million Facebook and Facebook users in Indonesia, and as many as 19.5 million Twitter users (Hikmat, 2018).

According to the e-Marketer market research institute, the country's population of netters reached 83.7 million in 2014. Indonesia is the sixth largest country in terms of population, according to the number of people who access the internet at least once per month of internet users. In 2017, e-Marketer predicts that the number of internet users in Indonesia will reach 112 million, surpassing Japan, where the number of internet users is increasing at a slower rate. In 2015, the total number of Internet users worldwide will reach 3 billion. Three years later, in 2018, it's estimated that as many as 3.6 billion people will use the internet at least once per month (Romadhoni, 2018).

With the increasing rapidity of information technology's use of social media, one of which can create a positive image for institutions in the eyes of the public (Saputra, 2021), the existence of social media is crucial for institutions, agencies, and businesses because it can spread a positive image in the eyes of the public, as the Nagan Raya District Attorney did.

The Nagan Raya District Attorney is an institution of the state that exercises state authority, particularly in the area of prosecution. As an authorized body in law enforcement and justice, the public prosecutor's office is directed by the attorney general, who is accountable to the president and is elected by the people (Husaini & Askar, 2020).

Current public perceptions of the Prosecutor's Office are diverse. Comprise both positive and negative perceptions. According to popular belief, the District Attorney of Nagan Raya is quite competent. Due to the local community's lack of familiarity with the law enforcement agency at the state attorney general's office, the public frequently mistakes the prosecutor's office for the police agency.

Attorney General Burhanuddin issued Attorney General's Instruction No. 1 of 2021 regarding Publication of performance and positive news about all Prosecutors' Agencies in the Mass Media and Social Media.

In this instance, the planning strategy or tactics, as well as the means to build the desired image for the Nagan Raya District Attorney, consist primarily of publications and media outlets selected by the respondents. The District Attorney of Nagan Raya possesses a very comprehensive collection of media. beginning with Facebook, Instagram, YouTube, and other websites.

The Nagan Raya District Attorney's Office has carried out several online or exclusive programs in order to build services to the community through social media pages, as well as displaying activities from the attorney general's office ranging from legal counseling programs. District Attorney of Nagan Raya's use of social media thus far has been exemplary.

Examining and analyzing in greater depth the communication strategies employed by the District Attorney of Nagan Raya is an important objective of this study. This study's findings will outline the strategic measures taken by the Public Prosecutor's Office to cultivate a positive reputation.

2. THEORETICAL BASIS

2.1. Communication Strategy

Middleton suggests that "communication strategy" is the optimal combination of all communication elements, beginning with the communicator, the message, the media, and the message recipient, in order to achieve the desired effect and achieve optimal communication (Adawiyah & Arif, 2021). According to the Onong Uchjana Efendi of the book Dimensions of Communication, strategy communication is a guide from planning communication and management to reach a specific goal. For achieving a specific objective, strategy communication must demonstrate how to operate tactically, in the sense that the approach taken at any given time depends on the prevailing circumstances (Putra, 2020).

Liliweri argues, communication strategies are:
1) Strategies that articulate, explain and promote a vision of communication and the unification of communication goals in a good formulation.
2) Strategies to create consistent communication, communication based on one decision from several communication options. Different strategies from tactics, communication strategies tend to explain the stages in a series of communication activities. Not only to inform, but also to educate through messages conveyed so that people can judge good or bad or whether the message is needed.
3) Disseminate Information (Informing), so that communication is more effective, the strategy has the aim of disseminating information specifically in accordance with the targets or targets of the communicant that have been determined.
4) Supporting Decision Making, the strategy here is defined to make someone dare to make a decision from the series of information they get (Adli, 2016).

The communication strategy is considered successful if its implementation is in accordance with the plan and the goals desired by the communicator are achieved. The objectives of the communication strategy according to Pace and Faules are as follows;
a. To secure understanding, to ensure that there is an understanding in communication.
b. To establish acceptance, how does the acceptance continue to be fostered.
c. To motive action, activation for motivation
d. The goal which the communicator sought to achieve, how to achieve the goal to be achieved by the communicator from the communication process.

2.2. Image

Image is a very important to a business or agency in order to create a transformation of an image using specific techniques. According to (Agustine & Prasetyawati, 2020), an image is a collection of a person's beliefs, ideas, and impressions regarding an object.

According to Bill Canton in (Lestari, 2021), image is the impression of an image, object, or organization that influences public opinion in order to establish a positive reputation for the business. Katz defines image in (Rahadhini, 2010) as a person's perception of a company, a person, a committee, or an activity.

Based on the various definitions provided by the aforementioned experts, an image is an impression, a picture, and something that a person feels based on the knowledge and experience he has acquired, as well as an object that appears spontaneously or is deliberately formed by a person or company (Putri, 2019).

According to Ishaq in (Puspita, 2019), several factors can contribute to the formation of an image, including identity, organizational management, prevalent communication patterns, and products. Meanwhile, Frank Jefkins highlight that the image consists of the following parts: Mirror Image, Current Image, Wish Image, Corporate Image, Compound Image (Putri, 2019).

2.3. Social Media

In today's modern era social media is very important as a very effective communication tool. Social media is an online media that has many benefits and advantages for business and promotion. At this time the Nagan Raya District Attorney's Office uses social media, including Websites, YouTube, Facebook and Instagram.

The rapid growth and development of social media is supported by the development of Broadband technology and faster connectivity with great potential for the world of communication and marketing (Kristiyono, 2015), which as follows:

1) Can provide information faster with social media. Social media is able to reach anyone who uses it, regardless of whether it's potential customers or other businesses that need business services or products.

2) Help find new customers and expand the target market.

3) Can increase Brand awareness and promotion with minimal costs.

4) Social media is a place to find out in more detail and detail about consumers, such as the language they use and their age range, so that we can provide accurate information.

5) The existence of social media can help search for target consumers more effectively by utilizing the features available on these social media.

6) Make it easy for consumers to give feedback directly by giving suggestions or criticism, by including comments and likes.
